

UNIVERSIDAD DISTRITAL FRANCISCO JOSE DE CALDAS

UNIVERSIDAD DISTRITAL FRANCISCO JOSÉ DE CALDAS School of Sciences and Education MA in Applied Linguistics to ELT Advanced Academic Writing (PATR 2020-3)

COURSE PROFESSOR

Alvaro H. Quintero P. aquintero@udistrital.edu.co

VIRTUAL ROOM

https://classroom.google.com/c/MTQzMzQ5NDkzNjQ4?cjc=5vqt3id

DESCRIPTION

Research in language education settings has a social dimension. Professionals of language education play a key role in making this social dimension take different shapes. One of the shapes it can take is academic writings that are frequently found in research journals, specialized magazines, book chapters, but the focus of this course is on the chapters of an MA thesis. With this in mind, this course is intended to present some resources and lead the practice of thesis writing of teacher researchers who are seeking to qualify the form and style of their degree work as a major academic writing experience during this course.

The target group for this course is teacher researchers who have a working fluency when dealing with both academic and research issues. This course opens a space to share academic writing practices concerning MA theses that comprise critical and reflective academic writing on pedagogical and research experiences.

COURSE GOALS

- Identify sources of difficulty when writing texts for academic purposes to improve ability to produce clear, organized, and coherent written academic texts.
- Identify the main features of different chapters of an MA thesis to adapt type of language and academic style to the purpose of degree work.
- Self-assess one's academic writing products to produce an MA thesis as a requirement for graduation.

TOPICS

- Academic writing
- Citing and referencing
- The MA thesis chapters
- Being Critical
- Tools for self-assessing one's writing

METHODOLOGY

The course is task-based and takes place in a collaborative environment. Participants are active throughout the course. For each session, the participants share a manuscript of their thesis chapters. The manuscripts serve as working papers, which receive theory-based and research-based input from the class and from the professor. In this way, the participants' current written language needs are met. Each session is spent working on manuscripts shared by the participants and discussing assigned reading material.

ASSESSMENT

| Criteria/Activity                                      | Description                                                                                                                                           | Weight/Percentage |
|--------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------|
| Attendance and activeparticipationEach session | For continuity and optimallearning outcome, fullattendance is required.Assigned readings should beread and used for writingtasks. | 20%               |
| Individual writing tasksEach session               | Independent, introspective,and critical practice: Planningand drafting manuscripts                                                            | 25%               |
| Group writing tasks                                    | Collaborative practice:Reading a partner's writing                                                                                                | 25%               |
| Each session                                           | for revising, proofreading, and editing                                                                                                               |                   |
| Final work                                             | Based on tasks developed inevery session, theparticipants are expected towrite all the chapters of theirMA theses.                    | 30%               |
|                                                        | (guidelines will be provided by the professor in advance)                                                                                             |                   |

COURSE PLANNER

| DATE        | TOPIC/ACTIVITY                                                                                                                           | KEY READINGS AND ASSIGNMENTS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|-------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Aug.21  | Introduction to the course                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Aug.28  | Group workshopReviewing someMA thesis chapters                                                                                   | Aura Maria Estacio A Decolonial Perspective ofthe Native and Non-native Dichotomy in EnglishTextbooks- Aura Estacio .pdfParticipants will read one of their classmate'sStatement of the Research ProblemThe Participants will review another MA thesis oftheir interest retrieved from:http://repository.udistrital.edu.co/handle/11349/13 |
| Sept.4  | Individual tutoring                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Sept.11 | Group workshopOral report: peerassessment of aclassmate'sStatement of theResearch ProblemCiting &Referencing | Participants will read one of their classmate'sLiterature ReviewThe Purdue Online Writing Lab - OWL                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| Sept.18 | Individual tutoring                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Sept.25 | Group workshopOral report: peerassessment of aclassmate'sLiterature Review                                               | Participants will read one of their classmate'sResearch DesignCritical writing (from University of Leicester)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|             | Being critical                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |

UNIVERSIDAD DISTRITAL FRANCISCO JOSE DE CALDAS

| Oct. 2 | Individual tutoring                                                                      |                                                                         |  |
|--------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------|--|
| Oct. 9 | Group workshopOral report: peerassessment of aclassmate'sResearch Design | Participants will read one of their classmate'sInstructional Design |  |
| Oct.   | Individual tutoring                                                                      |                                                                         |  |
| 16     |                                                                                          |                                                                         |  |
| Oct.   | Group workshop                                                                           | Participants will read one of their classmate's                         |  |
| 23     | Oral report: peer                                                                        | Data Analysis                                                           |  |
|        | assessment of aclassmate's                                                           | Approaches to data analysis                                             |  |
|        | Research Design                                                                          | Appivacies io vala analysis                                             |  |
| Oct.   | Individual tutoring                                                                      |                                                                         |  |
| 30     |                                                                                          |                                                                         |  |
| Nov. 6 | Group workshopOral report: peerassessment of aclassmate's DataAnalysis   | Participants will read one of their classmate'sConclusions          |  |
| Nov.   | Individual tutoring                                                                      |                                                                         |  |
| 13     |                                                                                          |                                                                         |  |
| Nov.   | Final paper due                                                                          |                                                                         |  |
| 20     | Complete draft of thesis                                                                 |                                                                         |  |
| Nov.   | Feedback                                                                                 |                                                                         |  |
| 27     |                                                                                          |                                                                         |  |

AHQP, Aug., 2020